To whom it may concern,

I was compelled to submit this application because of the current state of the COVID-19 pandemic; I feel that I have useful skills and enough security in my circumstances that it is incumbent on me to offer whatever assistance I can.

From the summer of 2017 to the end of 2018 I worked at Philips Respironics in the core engineering group where I had the opportunity to become familiar with several respiratory products. However faded my memory of their construction and operation, I feel it would be a waste not to at least offer myself to the effort to mass-produce vital life-saving equipment. Particularly in facets where production and engineering meet, I feel I can be of use, and I hope you will as well.

If need be, I can make myself available almost immediately.
Thank you, and best wishes,
